

The corporation is the innovation

AN EXCERPT FROM:

Great From the Start: How Conscious Corporations Attract Success

BIBLIOGRAPHY AND ADDITIONAL RESOURCES

Montgomery & Hansen^{LLP}

The Law of Success

BIBLIOGRAPHY AND ADDITIONAL RESOURCES

Aburdene, Patricia. Megatrends 2010: The Rise of Conscious Capitalism. Charlottesville, NC: Hampton Roads, 2007. This book provides an excellent introduction to conscious capitalism.

Adams, Rob. A Good Hard Kick in the Ass: Basic Training for Entrepreneurs. New York: Crown Business, 2002. The author, a seasoned venture capitalist, is brutally honest and direct about what it takes to succeed as an entrepreneur.

Allen, David. Getting Things Done: The Art of Stress-Free Productivity. New York: Viking Penguin, 2001. This book provides a definitive guide to being organized, which is the unspoken basis of an entrepreneur's ability to build a successful company.

Ante, Spencer E. Creative Capital: Georges Doriot and the Birth of Venture Capital. Boston: Harvard Business School Press, 2008. This book traces the history of venture capital in America and is required reading for anyone seeking venture capital or working in the venture capital business.

Bakan, Joel. The Corporation: The Pathological Pursuit of Profit and Power. New York: Free Press, 2004. This book analyzes the history of corporations and explores why they are prone to sociopathic behaviors.

Beck, Don Edward, and Christopher C. Cowen. Spiral Dynamics: Mastering Values, Leadership, and Change. Malden, MA: Blackwell, 1996. This book provides a map with eight stages of development of human consciousness on both individual and societal levels.

- Beckwith, Harry. What Clients Love: A Field Guide to Growing Your Business. New York: Warner Books, 2003. This book is an invaluable guide to developing authentic sales and marketing techniques that accelerate sales.
- Blanchard, Ken, and Sheldon Bowles. Raving Fans: A Revolutionary Approach to Customer Service. New York: William Morrow, 1993. This book explains how to turn a corporation's stakeholders into raving fans.
- Blank, Steven Gary. The Four Steps to the Epiphany: Successful Strategies for Products That Win. Cafepress.com, 2005. This book is an essential guide to developing winning products.
- Bragdon, Joseph H. Profit for Life: How Capitalism Excels. Cambridge, MA: Society for Organizational Learning, 2006. This book highlights an emergent model of the corporation as an organic living system whose primary means of growth are living assets (people and natural resources). The public companies profiled emphasize stewardship of living assets and provide a better rate of return than their peers.
- Campbell, Joseph. The Hero with a Thousand Faces. Novato, CA: New World Library, 2008. This book can place the process of building a company in the context of the classic hero's journey.
- Collins, Jim. Good to Great: Why Some Companies Make the Leap . . . and Others Don't. New York: HarperCollins, 2001. This book is required reading for every businessperson. Chapter 3 about core values and chapter 11 about how to develop a vision are especially helpful for entrepreneurs.
- Collins, Jim, and Jerry I. Porras. Built to Last: Successful Habits of Visionary Companies. New York: HarperCollins, 1997. This book provides much inspiration about the importance of culture and values in building successful businesses.
- Conley, Chip. Peak: How Great Companies Get Their Mojo from Maslow. San Francisco: Jossey-Bass, 2007. This book provides an inspired approach to meeting the self-actualization needs of a company's stakeholders.
- Dalai Lama. Ethics for the New Millennium. New York: Riverhead Books, 1999. This book sets forth an appeal for an approach to ethics based on universal rather than religious principles and provides a useful perspective for an entrepreneur who wishes to design a values-based culture.

Dooley, Deborah. Journeying into Wholeness with Map and Skills. Palo Alto, CA: Delphi Press, 2003. This book provides a coherent map of the development of human consciousness with five stages.

Freeman, R. Edward. Strategic Management: A Stakeholder Approach. Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 2010. This book is credited with positing the stakeholder approach to thinking about corporations.

Gelb, Michael. How to Think Like Leonardo da Vinci: Seven Steps to Genius Every Day. New York: Dell, 2000. This delightful book expands the concept of whole-brain thinking by explaining the “Seven Da Vincian Principles” of Curiosita, Dimonstratziione, Sensaziione, Sfumato, Arte/Scienza, Corporalita, and Connessione.

Goleman, Daniel. Emotional Intelligence: Why It Can Matter More Than IQ, rev ed. New York: Bantam Books, 2006. This classic work helps entrepreneurs understand and access their emotional intelligence.

Goleman, Daniel. Working with Emotional Intelligence. New York: Bantam Books, 1998. This book is helpful to those looking to stimulate their emotional skills.

Greene, Robert. The 48 Laws of Power. New York: Penguin Books, 1998. This book provides a working knowledge of the laws of power, which is an essential component of effective leadership.

Hall, Brian. Values Shift: A Guide to Personal and Organizational Transformation. Eugene: Wipf and Stock Publishers, 1994. This book presents a map of the stages of development of consciousness expressed through seven familiar leadership styles: authoritarian, paternalist, manager, facilitator, collaborator, servant and visionary.

Hamel, Gary. The Future of Management. Boston: Harvard Business School Press, 2007. This book raises many questions about the evolution of management.

Hawken, Paul. The Ecology of Commerce: A Declaration of Sustainability. New York: Harper Paperbacks, 1993, 2010. This book launched the dialogue on sustainable business practices.

Hawkins, David R. Power vs. Force: The Hidden Determinants of Human Behavior. Sedona, AZ: Veritas, 1995. This is the book for those who want to explore attractor patterns.

Jackson, Mick. Temple Grandin. Burbank, CA: HBO Films, 2010. This film profiles Temple Grandin, PhD, who is a genius in the field of animal intelligence. Grandin brilliantly applies her knowledge of how cattle's brains perceive their reality, to design humane stockyards and slaughterhouses that are optimized for the psychology of livestock. Grandin is my new hero. My hope for Great from the Start is to inspire humane businesses that are similarly optimized for human psychology.

Kawasaki, Guy. The Art of the Start: The Time-Tested, Battle-Hardened Guide for Anyone Starting Anything. New York: Penguin Group, 2004. This book is an excellent guide to building a successful startup company.

Klein, Jeff. Working for Good: Making a Difference while Making a Living. Boulder, CO: Sounds True, 2009. This book provides an entrepreneur with tools and techniques to develop a more conscious approach to work.

Livingston, Jessica. Founders at Work: Stories of Startups' Early Days. Berkeley, Apress, 2008. This book contains interviews with 32 founders of successful startup companies, which capture the alchemy of the entrepreneurial process and provide invaluable insights for any entrepreneur starting a company.

Mackey, John. Passion and Purpose. Boulder, CO: Sounds True, 2009. This pair of CDs provides an introduction to the principles of conscious capitalism and explores how businesses fueled by the entrepreneurial spirit can be forces for positive change.

Maslow, Abraham Harold. Motivation and Personality, 3rd edition. New York: HarperCollins, 1987. This is a classic work about motivation.

Maxwell, John. The 21 Irrefutable Laws of Leadership: Follow Them and People Will Follow You, rev ed. Nashville: Thomas Nelson, 2007. This book provides a useful set of principles to develop the skills of leadership.

- McDonough, William, and Michael Braungart. Cradle to Cradle: Remaking the Way We Make Things. New York: North Point Press, 2002. This book provides a compelling alternative to the “cradle to grave” manufacturing model of the Industrial Age.
- McGilchrist, Iain. The Master and His Emissary: The Divided Brain and the Making of the Western World. New Haven, CT: Yale University Press, 2009. This book analyzes the right and left hemispheres of the brain and explores the consequences of a world dominated by left-brain people. This extraordinary work establishes the urgent need for humanity to develop a whole-brain approach to organizing society and civilization.
- Montgomery, John. Introduction to Venture Capital Financing Agreements. Westborough, MA: Cognistar, 2008. This three-hour video course explains the standard documents used in venture capital financing. Available at <https://www.cognistar.com/MontHansen>.
- Montgomery, John. Understanding the Venture Capital Term Sheet Process. Westborough, MA: Cognistar, 2008. This hourlong video explains the term sheet process in venture capital financings. Available at <https://www.cognistar.com/MontHansen>.
- Moore, Geoffrey A. Crossing the Chasm, rev ed. New York: Harper Paperbacks, 2002. This book suggests a unifying approach to marketing to help make a mainstream market emerge.
- Mourkogiannis, Nikos. Purpose: The Starting Point of Great Companies. New York: St. Martin's Press, 2006. This book establishes that a meaningful purpose is essential to the success of any business.
- Nesheim, John L. High Tech Start Up: The Complete Handbook for Creating Successful New High Tech Companies, rev ed. New York: Free Press, 2000. This book provides useful information about how to write a business plan.
- Owen, James P. Cowboy Ethics: What Wall Street Can Learn from the Code of the West. Ketchum, ID: Stoecklein, 2005. The author, an investment banker, advocates that corporations adopt codes of ethics and govern their conduct accordingly.

- Rao, Srikumar S. Are You Ready to Succeed? Unconventional Strategies for Achieving Personal Mastery in Business and Life. New York: Hyperion, 2006. This book inspires an entrepreneur to become aware of his life purpose and provides an introduction to the development of his consciousness.
- Rath, Tom. StrengthsFinder 2.0. New York: Gallup Press, 2007. This useful book helps entrepreneurs identify and apply their aptitudes.
- Riso, Don. Personality Types: Using the Enneagram for Self-Discovery. New York: Mariner Books, 1996. This book is an essential management tool to help a leader understand not only his own personality archetype but also those of his co-workers.
- Robinson, Ken, and Lour Aronica. The Element: How Finding Your Passion Changes Everything. New York: Penguin, 2009. This inspiring book will help you identify your life's purpose.
- Rock, David, Your Brain at Work: Strategies for Overcoming Distraction, Regaining Focus, and Working Smarter All Day Long. New York: HarperBusiness, 2009. This book provides an excellent introduction to the neuroscience of behavior.
- Rosenberg, Marshall. The Nonviolent Communication Training Course. Boulder: SoundsTrue, 2006. 9 CDs and a succinct training manual provide an excellent introduction to nonviolent communication.
- Rushkoff, Douglas. Life Inc.: How the World Became a Corporation and How to Take It Back. New York: Random House, 2009. This book provides an account of how corporations have become the dominant force of contemporary life.
- Sanders, Tim. Saving the World at Work: What Companies and Individuals Can Do to Go Beyond Making a Profit to Making a Difference. New York: Crown Business, 2008. This inspiring book highlights our individual potential to make a difference.
- Schachter-Shalomi, Zalman, and Ronald S. Miller. From Age-ing to Sage-ing: A Profound New Vision of Growing Older. New York: Grand Central, 1997. This book contains useful information about the power of mentoring.

- Servan-Schreiber, David, The Instinct to Heal: Curing Depression, Anxiety and Stress without Drugs and without Talk Therapy. Emmaus, PA: Rodale, 2004. This book is a useful resource to help leaders manage fear and anxiety.
- Sherwin, Elton B., Jr., The Silicon Valley Way: Discover 45 Secrets for Successful Start-Ups, rev ed. Palo Alto, CA: Energy House, 2010. This book contains valuable techniques used by successful entrepreneurs to develop their business plans.
- Sisodia, Rajendra S., David B. Wolfe, and Jagdish N. Sheth. Firms of Endearment: How World-Class Companies Profit from Passion and Purpose. Upper Saddle River, PA: Wharton School, 2007. This book profiles companies that embody the principles of conscious capitalism; these “firms of endearment” beat the performance of the S&P 500 by a factor of 8 to 1 over a 10-year period.
- Spence, Roy M., Jr. It's Not What You Sell, It's What You Stand For: Why Every Extraordinary Company Is Driven by Purpose. New York: Penguin, 2009. This inspiring book emphasizes the importance of a company's having a compelling purpose.
- Strong, Michael, and John Mackey. Be the Solution: How Entrepreneurs and Conscious Capitalists Can Solve All the World's Problems. Hoboken, NJ: John Wiley & Sons, 2009. This book suggests how conscious entrepreneurs and capitalists can help solve big problems.
- Thomson, David G. Blueprint to a Billion: 7 Essentials to Achieve Exponential Growth. Hoboken, NJ: John Wiley & Sons, 2005. This book is an excellent sequel to Great from the Start because it shows how great companies achieved exponential growth to $1 billion in revenue during the growth phase of their businesses.
- Wilber, Ken. The Integral Vision: A Very Short Introduction to the Revolutionary Integral Approach to Life, God, the Universe, and Everything. Boston: Shambhala, 2007. This book provides an excellent, easy-to-read introduction to integral theory. In the context of integral theory, Great from the Start suggests how post-conventional entrepreneurs can design post-conventional companies. The legal architecture in chapter 20, for example, provides the structure of an integral corporate interior.

